

Experience Denay Sky

My name is Denay Sky. I've taught over 20 professional nail classes nationwide across multiple states, and I just turned 25 years old. I currently work with MakarttPro and DeEnti, contributing to education, product knowledge, and professional development within the nail industry. Everything I teach comes from real experience, real trial and error, and real execution. This is more than a class. It's an introduction to who I am, how I teach, and how I built what I built. You don't just learn acrylic application. You sit in the room with me. You ask questions. You see the mindset behind the method. You understand how someone like you made it work. Because that's the part people don't talk about. I'm just a girl from San Antonio who grew up with her grandparents. A single mom of two. Odds stacked against me more than once. So how did I do it? That's what you're really coming to learn. This experience isn't common. You don't come across someone with both the skill and the story very often. And when you do, you take the opportunity.

If you've struggled with acrylic consistency, structure, or understanding why things go wrong, this class is designed for you.

What You Will Learn

- Structured nail prep and tip application
- Acrylic ratio and bead control
- Product placement and zone control
- Building structure with intention
- Efficient shaping and refinement
- How to problem solve in real time

What You Will Leave With
